Court Denies Preliminary Injunction

Parties in the Hanford L.
Cleveland - Plumber's Union lawsuit in which Cleveland sought a preliminary injunction against the union to halt picketing at the new YMCA building were directed yesterday
by Judge Fred W. Davis
"to proceed promptly to a final determination of the matter."

Judge Davis prefaced his directive with a denial of Cleveland's request for a preliminary injunction.

The Davis opinion also contained two other pertinent facts:

One—A question of the local court's jurisdiction over the case raised by the defendants ought not to be determined at the preliminary hearing.

Two—As the record of the case now stands, the court would find Hanford Cleveland has sustained his allegations that conduct on the part of the defendant union and Mr. Paul constitutes unlawful action under laws of the Commonwealth and also constitutes unfair labor practice under the Labor Management Relations
Act—Taft-Hartley Law.

Cleveland filed his action seeking to restrain Local 655 of the Plumbers Union, and Ralph Paul, its business agent, "preliminarily and perpetually on final hearing from picketing" Cleveland at the premises of the Young Men's Christian Association, Stroudsburg where Cleveland is engaged in installing the plumbing in a new YMCA building pursuant to a contract between the Y and Cleveland,
Judge Davis noted.

The hearing held before Judge
Davis consisted of testimony submitted by Cleveland. The defendant plumbers' union and Mr. Paul refrained from producing testimony, the judge noted.

Judge Davis recalled that the union and Paul raised the question of jurisdiction of Monroe County Court on the reasoning that Cleveland is engaged in interstate commerce and that the only charge against the union and Paul was an activity unlawful under the laws of the Commonwealth.

The defendants claimed further,
Judge Davis noted, that this activity also constituted an allegation of unfair labor practice under the provisions of the Labor Management Relations Act, also known as the Taft-Hartley Act, and therefore a State court has no jurisdiction. Cleveland is therefore relegated to proceedings before the National Labor Relations Board for his remedy, defendants claim.

Judge Davis said evidence shows picketing was peaceful, without violence or threats of violence, nor does Cleveland allege any such acts.

Cleveland does allege, the court said, that the union and Paul, as defendants, unlawfully and illegally attempted to coerce him into committing an unlawful act by interfering with his employees in the exercise of their rights under the labor law of the Commonwealth.

The court's opinion then discusses a Dauphin County Court case which held that if the plaintiffs (in this case that would be Cleveland) charged the defendant was engaged in an activity which was unlawful under the law of the state which also constituted an unfair labor practice under the Taft-Hartley Law, and the plaintiff was also engaged in interstate commerce, the State Court had no jurisdiction, and remedy would have to be sought before the National Labor Relations Board.

"Therefore," said Judge Davis opinion, "it is clear that if the plaintiff is engaged in interstate commerce this Court does not have jurisdiction."

However, Judge Davis also held that the question of jurisdiction, which can be raised any time,
"ought not to be determined merely on the testimony offered at a preliminary hearing."

"Certainly," he added, "a bill ought not to be dismissed until plaintiff (Cleveland in this case) has had sufficient time after the question is raised to produce any testimony that might be pertinent to the inquiry."

Thus passing over the question of jurisdiction, Judge Davis took up in his opinion the question:
"Does the testimony show conduct on the part of the defendants that constitutes unlawful action under the laws of the Commonwealth and also constitutes unfair labor practice under the Labor Management Relations Act?"

Judge Davis said that at the argument before the Court the defendant union and Mr. Paul "did not contend that the plaintiff (Cleveland) had not made out his case in this respect and as the record now stands we would find that the plaintiff has sustained his allegations in this respect."

Judge Davis then cited two court cases which he says brings the local case "squarely within the principle . . . that if the purpose in picketing was to require plaintiff to force his employees to join a union or to discharge them and employ others who are members of a union, such purpose is unlawful and subject to restraint."

Move To Shorten Hearings Rejected

Stevens Vetoes Dirksen Plan As "Unfair"

Washington (AP) — Secretary of the Army Stevens telephoned a veto yesterday — while at home watching the proceedings on television — and so a last-ditch Republican move to cut short the McCarthy-Army public hearings was defeated, 4-3.

In the stormy aftermath of a stormy day devoted entirely to argument over cut-it-short proposals, Senate investigators agreed to vote today on a strongly backed new move to hold night as well as day sessions.

The decisive vote—on a proposal by Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) to shorten the public phase of the inquiry—came after Joseph N. Welch, counsel to the Army side, twice left the hearing room and telephoned the virus-stricken Stevens.

With TV cameras recording the remarkable and probably unprecedented scene—Welch finally reported the Army secretary felt the Dirksen proposal "would not result in fairness."

That settled it. Acting Chairman Mundt (R-SD) had announced beforehand he'd vote against the proposal, even though he favored it, if either side felt it would result in unfairness or injustice. Mundt proceeded to vote with the three Democrats against the Dirksen proposal, and it was defeated.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) protested angrily that he'd been misled. He said he'd been given to understand during the noon hour that Welch would accept the proposal—that Welch, in fact, had suggested some changes so as to make it acceptable.

The Wisconsin lawmaker—"shocked beyond words," he said—declared this looked to him like bad faith on the part of the Army counsel. He demanded Welch be put on the stand to explain why he "wished" on an agreement.

Welch protested complete innocence. He said he made no suggestions during the noon hour and entered into no agreement. As a matter of fact, he said, he did nothing but have lunch and retire to a quiet room where he lay down on a long couch and rested.

What it all added up to was that all six principals in the controversy, and not just Stevens and McCarthy, will testify and be cross-examined in televised public sessions. Other witnesses likewise may be questioned in public, and the whole thing may take weeks or months.

Dirksen's proposal would have recessed the public hearings after Stevens and McCarthy testified. Additional testimony would have been taken behind closed doors, with word for word transcripts handed out to the press. Also, the subcommittee could have gone ahead with its regular work while the inquiry continued.

Democrats sharply attacked this proposal, contending the six key figures at least should testify in public and on TV just as Stevens has done for part or all of 13 days.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) charged it would be "a flagrant travesty on American standards of justice and equity" to close the doors on part of the inquiry. He introduced a motion simply to limit the time of further testimony. That motion was defeated, the four Republicans voting down the three Democrats.

The issue finally was settled after Mundt, in so many words, gave his proxy—that is, surrendered his voting right in effect—to either the McCarthy side or the Army side, if either felt the Dirksen proposal was unfair or unjust.

Pike Builders Kept Off Land By Dog, Shotgun

Doylestown (AP) — The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission yesterday filed a petition in Bucks County court to get Mrs. Anna Werner of Richelieu to call off her dogs and lay her shotgun down.

The commission has begun condemnation proceedings against part of Mrs. Werner's land, but she contends that she has refused settlement and refuses to allow employees on her land.

Mrs. Werner said she has no desire to interfere with progress, but she believed that the commission should pay for moving her eight room house or make a similar house. The court will hear the case Friday morning.

WILLIAM F. TOMPKINS, racket-busting U. S. attorney from Maplewood, N. J., has been named to head the new Justice Department division designed to speed prosecution of spies and traitors. According to a White House announcement, Tompkins will have the title of assistant attorney general.

Jewels Worth Half Million Are Stolen

Baton Rouge, La. (AP) — Sheriff's officers and customs agents searched yesterday for an estimated $500,000 in jewels, many of which the owner said he obtained in bombed-out Germany for "cigarettes, food rations and candy bars."

Sheriff Bryan Clemmons said the huge cache of gems was reported taken from a bureau drawer in a Baton Rouge home. He identified Woodrow W. Lewis, an industrial plant employee, as owner of the jewels and said Lewis reported them stolen last Thursday.

Lewis told the Baton Rouge State-Times he bought most of the jewels while serving with Gen. George Patton's army in Germany and "I got them from civilians who let them go for cigarettes, food rations and candy bars."

He said one diamond had been valued by the Smithsonian Institution at $131,964.31. He said he found the diamond in 1933 near Smoot, W. Va.

Lewis said there were 28 other diamonds missing, ranging in size from 1 1/2 to six carats. Also gone, he said, were an emerald, rubies, opals, star sapphires and "a loose assortment of all kinds of cut diamonds."

He said he had kept the gems in an unlocked bureau drawer.

Nine Indicted In Tax Case

New York (AP) — Nine men were indicted yesterday on charges involving evasion of $17,400,000 in income taxes on profits from liquor deals in World War II and post-war years when whiskey was scarce.

Government officials described it as possibly the largest income tax evasion case in history. One of those indicted was Hyman Harvey Klein, who told a House committee in 1952 that he parlayed $1,000 in cash into a five million dollar profit.

The government had slapped seven million dollars in jeopardy tax assessments against him in 1948.

Accuses Foundations

Washington (AP) — A House investigator said yesterday he has found evidence that funds of some tax-exempt foundations have been "used to finance ideas and practices" at odds with the U. S. Constitution.

Molotov Hits Proposed U. S. Pact In Asia

Geneva (AP) — Soviet foreign Minister V. M. Molotov hammered at the proposed U. S. security pact in Southeast Asia yesterday. The deadlocked Indochina peace talks were temporarily recessed.

Molotov described the proposed pact as "a new military bloc against the peoples of Southeast Asia" and said it was "in contradiction with the interests of peace."

The Soviet minister raised the question in a 19-nation meeting on the problem of unifying Korea. No signs of progress in settling the Korean question were discernible in yesterday's session. The discussion of an armistice for Indochina will be resumed today in a session of the Big Four, Red China, the three Associated States of Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam and Vietnamese representatives.

Earlier a French spokesman said his government was opposed to major points in the Communist-Led Vietnamese armistice plan for Indochina. But he said the French consider the Vietnamese proposals, along with France's, as a basis for discussion.

Huang Hua, official spokesman for the Chinese Communists, commenting on the French statement, said France had been "compelled" to alter previous rejection of the Vietnamese proposal. The Chinese spokesman ridiculed the possibility of a French-Vietnamese compromise.

The spokesman made clear the French had not rejected the Vietnamese proposals, which the United States says are designed to hand over Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia to eventual Communist control.

Wounded May Be Removed

Saigon, Indochina (AP) — Vietnamese Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap announced last night he had "decided to authorize" the French to remove their seriously wounded from Dien Bien Phu.

Giap made his announcement over the Vietnam Radio a few hours after Gen. Henri Navarre, French commander in Indochina, had asked Giap to arrange evacuation of the approximately 1,300 wounded stranded at the fortress when it fell to the Communist-led rebels Friday.

Both the appeal and the response followed agreement Monday by French and Vietnamese representatives at the Geneva conference for the opposing commanders to arrange for removing the French Union battle casualties.

Giap directed the French to send representatives in helicopters "clearly bearing the insignia of the Red Cross" to the northern end of the shattered fortress' flying field. He requested the French to set the date and hour for the meeting.

For the second time in eight days Laniel demanded a confidence vote on the issue of Indochina debate.

He won by 311 to 262 last Thursday, but that was the day before the fall of Dien Bien Phu. When the halting came up again Thursday he faces a much tougher battle. Defeat of the government might cause adjournment of the Geneva conference now in session on Indochina and Korea. It could also lead to dissolution of the Assembly and new elections.

Laniel Calls For Showdown

Paris (AP) — Premier Laniel last night told the National Assembly it must agree to put off debate on Indochina or throw him out of office.

For the second time in eight days Laniel demanded a confidence vote on the issue of Indochina debate.

He won by 311 to 262 last Thursday, but that was the day before the fall of Dien Bien Phu. When the halting came up again Thursday he faces a much tougher battle. ## Eisenhower Assured Of Bipartisan Support On Sending U. S. Troops To Indochina Provided Allies Give Assent

By Robert S. Allen

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower has won key congressional support on sending American troops to Red-periled Indochina.

The top Republican and Democratic leaders of the House and Senate have pledged their approval of such action—on one condition.

This crucial requirement is that the intervention be favored by Britain, France, Australia and New Zealand. Unless these four allies give their assent, the congressional leaders told the President they are opposed to the U. S. becoming involved in this war alone.

This vital bipartisan congressional commitment was made at a private conference with Secretary of State Dulles and Admiral Arthur Radford.

It followed an explanation by Dulles that he is seeking an understanding with the four allies on a plan for united action on the defense of the entire Pacific Southeast from further Communist aggression. He pointed out this may require the employment of U. S. military forces in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

The congressional leaders indicated their willingness to support such intervention if it is backed by the other allies. Otherwise, the legislators are against it.

They made it very clear to Dulles that Congress would not approve separate action by the U. S.

The congressional leaders also indicated that President Eisenhower formally request congressional approval before sending troops to Indochina. That was promised by Dulles.

At one point during this secret meeting, Dulles admitted the existence of a deep split between the U. S. and France and Britain on an Asiatic policy.

"But it is our belief," he added, "that the demands of the Communists for a settlement will be so high that they will reunite us and our allies."

Dulles stated that one of the biggest problems in dealing with Britain is Prime Minister Churchill's fear that a third world war would destroy the British Isles. Dulles expressed belief that Britain will agree to joint action in Indochina after it becomes clear that the Reds' price for peace is unreasonable.

Several Democratic leaders questioned Dulles sharply on what they called his "negative approach."

One of them remarked caustically, "You did a lot of talking a while back about 'taking the initiative.' There has been no evidence of anything like that in what's been happening in recent months. The only initiative that has been apparent has been on the part of the Kremlin and Peking."

Dulles vigorously defended his policies and insisted he is making progress in an anti-aggression alliance in the Far East.

Washington (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said yesterday he favors a Southeast Asia alliance which would authorize member countries to put down the attacks by Communist forces in Indochina.

At the same time, he said that even if all Indochina falls to Red aggression he believes it would still be possible for an anti-Communist coalition to hold the rest of Southeast Asia, an area he said is of transcendent importance to U. S. security.

Dulles frankly acknowledged that loss of Red-threatened Indochina would make the task of saving the remainder of Southeast Asia far more difficult. But he said the West would never give up in despair.

Senate Bars Court Packing

Washington (AP) — The Senate yesterday voted 58-19 for a constitutional amendment designed to prevent any future attempt to re-vamp the Supreme Court such as occurred in the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration.

The key provision of the amendment would permanently fix the number of justices on the U. S. Supreme Court at nine. The size of the court, now determined by law but not by the Constitution, has been changed a number of times in the course of history.

The proposed amendment would also require all federal judges to retire at 75. The oldest member of the Supreme Court now is Justice Felix Frankfurter, who is 71.

Before final passage, the Senate knocked out a provision which would have barred justices from resigning to run for president.

Chief Justice Earl Warren twice sought the Republican presidential nomination before being named to the Supreme Court by President Eisenhower.

In addition, Justice William O. Douglas has been mentioned as a Democratic presidential or vice presidential possibility.

The Senate-approved measure now goes to the House. If approved there by a two-thirds vote, it would then be submitted to state legislatures. To become part of the Constitution, it would have to be ratified by 36 states within seven years after being submitted by Congress. The Senate tally showed 43 Republicans and 15 Democrats voted for the amendment; 18 Democrats and one Independent opposed it.

Guided Missile Is Developed

Washington (AP) — The Defense Department announced last night the existence in "advanced status" of the supersonic Sperry "Sparrow" guided missile system.

The weapon is meant to be used from airplanes against airplanes. Since aerial targets are naturally much more evasive than surface targets this implies a high degree of maneuverability and control.

The Navy disclosed it is currently training ship and shore personnel for use of the Sparrow by carrier-based jet aircraft both in the Atlantic and Pacific fleets.

It also was announced that more than 100 "prototype" or experimental models of the Sparrow were built and test-flown between 1948 and 1951. The Navy said there have been Sparrow launchings from aircraft since 1949.

Weeks Foresees Upturn In Sales

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Weeks, reporting a pickup in retail sales during April, said yesterday "I believe we are headed out of this recession, or whatever you want to call it."

"I have reason, I believe," Weeks said, "to be optimistic." He spoke at a sales promotion conference of the National Retail Drygoods Assn.

Baltimore Seeks To Retain Part Of Depot; McKeldin Sees Little Benefit To Tobyhanna

Washington (AP) — Hopes that the maintenance division of the signal depot may be kept at Baltimore was expressed yesterday by two Maryland congressmen.

The comments were made by Reps. Friedel and Fallon, Maryland Democrats, after Gov. McKeldin and other Marylanders conferred with Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert Anderson.

The governor left with Anderson a letter protesting the transfer of the depot from Dundalk, a Baltimore suburb, to Tobyhanna, Pa.

Fallon told a reporter he believes Pentagon officials will "come up with a solution that will in part at least take care of the distressed employees."

He said he hopes the maintenance division can be kept at Baltimore. The government would stand to lose more of these workers, he added, since their training as electronic engineers and die cutters would make it easy for them to find jobs in private industry.

Friedel said "we made a very good case."

"The only thing we are hoping for," he said, "is to save the maintenance division of the depot."

This division employs about 1,600 workers, he said. The entire depot employs 2,700.

Friedel said the delegation members argued that the maintenance division can be operated more efficiently at Baltimore.

McKeldin, in his letter to Anderson said the proposed transfer is "fraught with serious disturbance to Baltimore, unnecessary high cost to the Army, excessive loss of efficiency to the depot and all with little benefit to the small mountain community of Tobyhanna."

He added that Baltimore "cannot afford to lose the 2,700 jobs furnished by this installation, its payroll of 11 1/2 million dollars, its purchases of approximately two million dollars a year and the income to small businesses engaged in supplying the employees and the more than 7,000 members of their families."

"The Army, in our opinion, will lose time, money, efficiency and established auxiliaries if the move is consummated."

The governor added that Tobyhanna is not equipped for such a depot and wrote: "The immediate effect would be to inflict the disruptive influences of a boom town on a tranquil and beautiful mountain area most appreciated, best utilized and highly developed through the years as an ideal recreation and resort area."

In addition, three local officials received jail sentences—two of them to three months and one six months.

Longshoremen's Union Fined, Three Jailed

New York (AP) — The International Longshoremen's Assn. (Ind) and eight of its locals were fined a total of $92,500 last night in a criminal contempt action growing out of the recent crippling waterfront strike.

In addition, three local officials received jail sentences—two of them to three months and one six months.

Oklahoma City (AP) — Clean living is fine, says Dr. Earl D. Osborn, of Buffalo, N. Y., a skin specialist, but "daily bathing is the worst thing you can do to your skin, especially when you use soap."

He said statistics show that nations where people seldom take baths have the least number of skin infections and diseases.

Osborn spoke at one of the business sessions of the Oklahoma Medical Assn. convention. He is the author of more than 50 publications dealing with dermatology.

President Sympathetic

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower yesterday was described as "sympathetic" and "responsive" to a suggested program for aid for the unemployment-stricken hard coal area of northeastern Pennsylvania.

Princess Anne Provides Show As Royal Family Leaves 'Rock'

Gibraltar (AP) — An irresponsible waving to the crowd.

The marine band on the upper deck struck up with "Rule Britannia," and Charles and Anne scampered up the ladder in full view of the spectators to join the band.

A stern parental command and a wave of the arm by the Duke brought Charles obediently down. But Anne stuck it out at the top of the ladder, waving to the crowd and having a grand time. The Duke called to her three or four times and waved his arms at her, while the Queen turned around laughing.

Finally the Duke climbed the ladder, tucked Anne under his arm and brought her down to re-join the family as the yacht Edinburgh, Charles 3, and Anne 3, together on the after deck

The crowning scene came as the new royal yacht Britannia pulled away from Tower Wharf with the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, Charles 3, and Anne 3, together on the after deck

Ministerium To Convene At Buck Hill

The 20th annual convention of the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania and the Adjacent States will be held at Buck Hill Falls Inn beginning Monday, May 17 and continuing until May 20. More than 800 pastors and lay delegates will be in attendance at the meeting of this oldest organized church body in the United States.

The sessions will begin on Monday at 2 p. m. when the sermon will be delivered by Rev. Dr. C. M. Cooper, president of the body. The auditorium will be arranged like a church with all appointments for the administration of the Sacrament of Holy Communion, immediately following the Holy Communion the business session will start. Rev. Richard C. Kilch, S. T. D., will serve as chaplain.

On Monday at 8 p. m. the laymen and laywomen of the church will meet in the East Room of the Inn and hear a sacred concert by the Muhlenberg College Choir. A representative of the United Lutheran Church in America will address the group at 10 p. m. Continued sessions of the ministerium will continue on Tuesday through Thursday night at Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg.

Delegates to boards and delegates to the United Lutheran Church in America will take place at noon Tuesday. Sessions will be conducted every morning, afternoon, and night. They will close with the service of ordination for a class of young graduates for the Lutheran Theological Seminary on Thursday night at Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg.

Rev. Dr. Edward T. Hark III will preach the ordination sermon and the act of ordination will be performed by officers of the Ministerium. Rev. Claude E. Shuck, a former East Stroudsburg resident, is secretary of the body and Samuel E. Kidd, whose summer home is at Paradise Park, is stewardship secretary.

Witnesses To Convene In Tents

A three-day Jehovah's Witness convention will be held in tents on Milford Road this week-end after an American Legion protest prevented their use of a roller rink in Memorial Park near Stroudsburg.

The conference—with the general theme "Is Civilization's End Near?"—was originally slated for the Stroud Roller Rink. American Legion members protested, however, saying that members of the religious order "refuse to pledge allegiance to the flag."

Owner of the rink building is the Central Labor Union (CLU) Club in East Stroudsburg. The club also owns the park and other buildings on it.

Formal protest by the Legion board of directors was made three months ago, according to Vincent Marek Jr., Tannersville, board president. Local Post 346 (George N. Kemp) lodged the protest.

"We went to see the CLU," Marek said, "because we felt that if this county was good enough for us to fight for—and a lot of these fellows saw their buddies die—if a group would not pledge allegiance to the American flag they shouldn't be allowed to meet there."

There was a "sort of gentlemen's agreement" between the CLU and us that the CLU would not allow the Jehovah's Witnesses to hire the rink, after the meeting three months ago, Marek said.

The Jehovah's Witnesses have refused to swear allegiance to any flag in the past. They base this refusal on literal translation of the 20th chapter of Exodus in the Bible.

Taking such an oath, members believe, would be "bowing down" to a "graven image" in contradiction to what they believe to be the "word of God." Under the tenets of the religious order, bearing arms is also a violation of "God's law."

Although the CLU Club owns the building at the park, it is sub-leased to a private commercial firm for use as a roller rink. The club still retains approval rights on sub-lease of the rink.

An agreement to sub-lease the rink to the Witnesses was reached by Fred N. Severud, leader of the local congregation and Roy Kinney, manager of the rink some weeks ago.

In that agreement the Witness group was given the right to assemble in the rink for Bible meetings and set up cooking facilities in the area.

Kinney said that pressure had been brought by "local people" who objected to use of the rink by the group. Some persons told him they would forbid their children to skate at the rink if the Jehovah's Witnesses used it for a convention, Kinney said.

A few days after the original arrangement between Kinney and Severud had been signed—and before the Legion protest was known—Severud wrote a letter to Kinney asking if it would be permissible for Witnesses to use portions of the park for parking space during the convention.

It was at this point that Severud was first notified that the CLU organization would not approve the sub-lease. Severud said he did not press the matter further because he knew that Kinney "was only manager of the rink" and had no control of decisions for sub-letting it.

Severud then attempted to hire the East Stroudsburg Armory for the convention hall. His request was forwarded to the State Armory Board by Capt. W. C. G. Peterson, commanding officer of Company G, National Guard unit.

The request was turned down by the State board. Reasons given were that an armory could not be used for purposes of feeding a large group. The board also said a question of "security" was involved due to material stored in the local Armory building.

Peterson said he did not believe the security restriction applied to a particular organization. Stricter regulations are now in effect, he said, since the National Guard has been reorganized and new equipment has been issued.

Yesterday afternoon, preparations for the three-day convention neared completion on Milford Road, East Stroudsburg. At the site of the New Kingdom Hall now being constructed by Jehovah's Witnesses for their local congregation, two large tents and some smaller structures were set up.

The largest of the tents—measuring 150 by 50 feet—will serve as the "main auditorium" for Bible talks and discussions. To help seat the "overflow" expected to attend the meeting, a public address system will pipe the spoken word into the smaller cafeteria tent downhill and just off Route 209.

Members of the local Jehovah's Witness group served as workmen for setting the tents up on the site owned by the group. Spokesmen said the three-day meeting would "probably bring more than 1,000 persons from Pennsylvania and New Jersey" into the area.

Asked to comment on the Legion protest, Paul Geuss, of the Doylestown congregation who serves as public relations officer for the convention, indicated that the group was only attempting to "teach the word of God as we believe it."

"We wouldn't think of forcing people to eat meat on Friday because they believe it wrong," Geuss said. "We wonder if such pressure would be put on any other religious order because of what they believe."

C. L. Coup, circuit servant for the 20 congregations in the New Jersey-Pennsylvania 20th district, said: "We do feel that our rights have been abridged somewhat in this case—but we feel the people of these two communities have a right to hear the truth about God's Kingdom."

Legion officials were joined last night in disapproval of use of the Memorial Park building by Edward Tweedie, commander of the Thomas P. Lambert Post 2540, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Tweedie said he is "strictly against their (Witnesses) using Memorial Park . . . because they won't pledge allegiance. I'm sticking with the American Legion all the way."

The Flame Of Civic Pride

The exploration of what their community needs and the means of paying for those needs being conducted by the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club is, in the opinion of this newspaper, one of the most worthwhile ventures attempted in that borough in many years.

Publication of these findings is essential, if all of the possibilities for good are to be gained. The public—taxpayers if you please—must be kept informed.

The spark of civic pride, flaring as it does in some people, just flickers fitfully in others. It should be aflame at all times in all people of every community.

When that is so, a community progresses.

We can conceive of nothing which will feed the flame of civic pride any more than the Exchange Club's project.

Send for the Spirit

At the McCarthy-Army hearings the other day a commotion different from the usual type was created when a spectator raised his voice and was ushered out of the room.

Later the man, on being taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital for observation, told a policeman:

"A spirit sent me down to clean up this mess."

Obviously, the man failed in his mission. Looks as though we'll have to send for the spirit.

Your Volunteer Firemen

Public appreciation of volunteer fire companies seldom shows until there is a disastrous fire because few people realize that being a volunteer fireman is a continuing affair.

The Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Company at Saylorburg is a case in point—a case typical of every volunteer fire company in the Pocono Mountains.

Three years ago, as George Kitchen, company chief pointed out this week, this volunteer unit began to build toward the modern criteria of efficiency in fire fighting which characterizes volunteer units in this region.

Weekly fire schools were instituted for the volunteers with competent instructors, modern fire fighting text books and similar material. These men, dedicated to a task without pay, went to school with regularity.

They learned the most effective method to save lives and property. While learning, they were also putting forth every effort for funds to obtain equipment required to bring their unit up to peak of efficiency.

Result at this reading is that Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Company, from every standpoint, has been transformed so drastically it now rates with any other volunteer fire fighting unit in any similar community in the state.

But, the firemen are not done. They're after more equipment and more schooling.

Don't take volunteer firemen for granted. Public appreciation of their efforts must be constant—not just when you need them.

Wasted Manpower

The increase in pension and retirement systems has been a boon to older workers generally, but often a handicap to one class of them—those who lose their jobs and have to look for new ones. Business concerns are not inclined to hire an older worker who would be eligible for a pension in a few years.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell is setting up a special section in his agency to try to break down prejudices and restrictions against hiring older workers.

Aside from the humane aspect of the situation, it is in the nation's economic interest for the older worker to be productive to the best of his ability. Otherwise there will be not only a waste of manpower, but more unwilling objects of charity and burdens to the taxpayers.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Psychiatry And Global Affairs. Psychiatry was urged in settling international troubles by Dr. Kenneth Angel at a St. Louis convention of the American Psychiatric Society.

"It would be highly profitable in world disputes," he declared. Fine, doc. But the trouble is that today it is hard to find a nation that even trusts a couch. There are countries that take the suggestion "Lie down and relax" as a threat.

Turning the United Nations skyscraper into the tallest psychiatric center on Earth, a seat of World Hall of Sofas, is an intriguing idea, nevertheless. Fantasy the suggestion being applied in a current discussion of Indo-China.

Uncle Sam. — This is a clear act of aggression and calls for immediate action.

Britain. — There must be no appeasement.

Uncle Sam. — Let us strike a ringing blow for freedom by calling in a psychiatrist at once!

France. — Is there a psychiatrist in the house?

India. — There is a psychiatrist in the house but he just asked Vishinsky to lie on a sofa and Andrei is now lying on him.

Psychiatrist (showing up later). — Gentlemen, you sent for me?

Uncle Sam. — The fate of civilization is at the crossroads.

Psychiatrist. — What? Again? State your troubles. (As all start talking at once.) Never mind. I can see you are all off your rockers. Let us proceed. Will Russia take the couch and relate what is bothering her?

Russia. — It will save time if I state what is NOT bothering me. I demand that Uncle Sam be put on the couch first.

Psychiatrist. — Any objections? Uncle Sam. — In the interests of harmony let us all lie on the couch together.

British dentists report a new ailment, "TV teeth" among children. The kids, holding heads in hands as they watch thrillers, press their jaws too hard. We know a youngster whose upper are a sight from Westerns and whose lower are a mess because of whodunits. Nevertheless it isn't what TV horror films do to a kid's teeth that is all important. The more we watch Jackie Gleason in his new format the more we realize that the guy is a really great actor. He really digs into a role and plays it as if living it. "If I play like I played last time out I don't care if I ever see a golf course again." — President Eisenhower.

Nonsense, Ike; just bust a club, kick up a divot, denounce the course, snap at the caddies, blow your stack and give high blood pressure the green light like the rest of us do!

Psychiatrist. — Any objections? Uncle Sam. — In the interests of harmony let us all lie on the couch together.

A BREAK THE REDS HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR

Robert S. Allen Reports

Nuclear Weapons Tests To Be Concluded This Week

Washington — The current series of nuclear weapons tests in the South Pacific will be concluded this week with one of the mightiest explosions of all.

It will be another H-bomb, the fourth detonated by the U. S.

The first was on March 1, in an historic experiment that proved more powerful than the scientists calculated. Two others followed on April 6 and April 26.

The first two were announced, but the third has not yet been officially disclosed and may never be.

This is the new unproclaimed policy of the Atomic Energy Commission.

It was instituted by Chairman Lewis Strauss, and applies to both American and Russian tests.

In the past, all explosions were revealed. That is no longer being done under the new rule, announcements are made only in certain circumstances. An official statement will be issued on the forthcoming experiment.

Security factors were the chief reason for adoption of this new policy.

As a result of the changed procedure it is not possible to report all the tests of the current series that started in March. They included atomic as well as hydrogen weapons. Preparations are already under way for more such experiments in the South Pacific later this year.

Congressional authorities have been informed the Russians have had three series of atomic and one of thermonuclear experiments—an estimated total of nine atomic and three thermonuclear explosions.

Different Test. — The scientists have made a lot more headway in the latest Pacific tests than the Administration has been able to score in Congress on its bill to revise the Atomic Energy Act.

The backstage situation on this measure is not promising. So far, the Administration hasn't even been able to get anyone to introduce it.

Representative Sterling Cole (R., N.Y.), chairman of the Joint Atomic Committee, has not only refused to do that, but has produced the bill of his own that differs squarely with major provisions of the Administration's proposal. Further, a majority of both the Republican and Democratic members of this key committee are backing Cole.

One of the principal issues in this inner tug-of-war is the Committee's demand for greater control over atomic military matters.

For months the Committee, spearheaded by Cole, has been trying to get a controversial report on the defenses of the country against atomic attack. Defense Secretary Wilson has refused to turn over this "top secret" document. Committee members have charged that Wilson is withholding the report because it would show glaring deficiencies in the existing protective system.

Cole's bill deals directly with this undercover dispute. He has a George Sokolsky Says...

Subordination Of Korean To Indochina Situation Will Produce More Troubles

Perhaps the major stumbling block to an effective alliance between the United States and other countries is the confusion as to American policy which too often appears in press interviews rather than in formal documents. This is particularly true in relation to Korea and Indochina with regard to which our officials have spoken excessively but actions concerning which have been implemented cautiously.

In assuming leadership of an alliance or a coalition, a nation must risk greatly. Leadership does involve negotiation and understanding, but there comes a moment of decision when the alternatives are do or don't. At such a moment, those who assume leadership must have the courage of whatever convictions they hold or they will not be followed. This undoubtedly has been John Foster Dulles's difficulty at Geneva where, no matter what the explanation, Molotov assumed leadership and authority.

At the Berlin Conference, it was agreed on February 18 that the Political Conference concerning Korea should be held at Geneva on April 26. This conference was to deal principally with Korea, but actually Korea has become a side issue. These are the words of the resolution:

"Propose that a conference of representatives of the United States, France, the United Kingdom, the United States, France, the United Kingdom, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the Chinese People's Republic, and other interested states will be invited."

The invitation of the Chinese People's Republic (Red China) was a compromise with Soviet Russia and made the conference possible. Although the following paragraph was added as an escape clause, it fooled no one:

"It is understood that neither the invitation to, nor the holding of, the above-mentioned conference shall be deemed to imply diplomatic recognition in any case where it has not already been accorded."

When Chou En-lai came to Geneva he asserted himself, holding the ace-tard that if he walked out of the conference, so would Soviet Russia. As a matter of fact, he maneuvered himself into being an inviting power for a negotiation between Vietnam and Vietnam, which means that while Red China is not on the rotating presidency of the main meetings, Chou will probably preside over these subordinate meetings.

This delicate arrangement may mean nothing in the United States; in Asia it will be accepted as an acknowledgment of Red China as a great power with Chou En-lai photographed as a presiding officer. It means "face"—and "face" is very significant among Asiatics. In the efforts of Red China to conquer or to become allied with other Asiatic states, "face" is not only a symbol of egoism; it is a valuable political weapon.

The subordination of the Korean to the Indochina situation may be a result of the course of events, but it will surely produce new troubles in Korea. The aged patriot Syngman Rhee, is not involved in diplomatic puzzles; he is concerned with the existence of a free Korea. At his great age and in the circumstances of his country, compromise with Russia is equal to death.

The laundryman left with his weekly bundle. Among the items he took with him were, according to the laundry list, two dress shirts, starched bosoms. Three white shirts, no starch. And with it, he also took a week of strain and hours of lost sleep.

Somewhat or other five social affairs all crowded together into one week. Five times I had to put on either tuxedo or my new blue suit. Five times I had to play the game of make-believe and trying to be a VIP.

Five nights in a hotel room, fifteen restaurant meals, much more to eat and drink than I wanted. Two stiff dress shirts and three white shirts, no starch, in the laundry.

My wife went along to two of the affairs. The other three were stag and to her great delight, she didn't have to come along.

Before I go into deeper aspects of this "social" circus, let me just report that in these five days and nights I was served chicken five times, peas five times, ice cream five times, that I had gravy spilling on my suit twice and had to ask "please pass this or that" 46 times.

I had to listen to 14 speeches, heard the same jokes three times, and had to applaud 14 times to oratory most of which would have made me turn off my radio or television if I had tuned it in at home.

Please don't misunderstand me. I didn't HAVE to go to any of those affairs. I didn't HAVE to get two dress shirts and three white shirts, no starch, dirty.

I didn't HAVE to do it. But my wife and I thought it was good policy and that, since everybody else in our set, we'd have to go too, if only to be seen and to shake hands with many other VIPs and would-be VIPs.

One of the luncheons was quite interesting from at least one point of view.

It was strictly an invitation affair. At the door you were given a seating list, so that you could tell exactly where you were going to sit and with whom.

Then the calculating began. How come you were at table 318 with so-and-so and so-and-so, instead of being placed at table A or B or C, or at least 14 or 15 with Guggenheimer or Winkelheimer? Why was Schnitzberger more important than YOU?

Thus, the fellows in the second or third balcony had to sit through the whole meal worrying about their social and business importance, wondering whether they were going to get that order the next day or whatever they were after by going to one of these affairs.

To me, happily being completely satisfied with my place at the table and the table itself, the whole thing was a huge joke.

You have no idea how good I felt when we finally got home. Back into my old clothes, my slacks with the patch in them; my blue open-at-the-neck shirt. Back at my own table in my own house with my own wife. A BUM again!

The only trouble is, she just asked me:

"Dear, do you mind chicken again tonight? I've got it in the deep freeze."

That Panhandler who was walking along near Hollywood and Vine with a dazed look on his face had just had an encounter with Graciano Marx—and he probably didn't get over it for weeks, if at all.

"Gimme a buck, Graciano," the panhandler had pleaded. "And I'll be honest with you. I want to buy a drink."

"I'm not sure I can trust you," was Graciano's reply. "How do I know you won't go and buy something to eat with it?"

Poem penned by the Edna St. Vincent Millay of Pine Bluff, Ark.: Slippery ice, mighty thing; pretty lass tumbled in; saw a boy along the bank; gave a holler, then she sank. Boy on bank heard her shout, then jumped in and fished her out. Now he's hers (very nice), but 'twas she who broke the ice!

My New York

—by Mel Heimer

New York — From time to time, when the idea of sitting down and putting words on paper seems to me to be an absurd occupation for a grown man, I go and have a talk with Hal Foster, which is his vicious way of living dangerously. He told me today, however, about his most recent experience and for once I was glad I was me and not him.

Hal is the tall, gray-haired artist who since 1936 has drawn the adventure strip, Prince Valiant, which has cropped up in the news recently because Twentieth Century-Fox just unfurled a $4 million movie based on Val's deeds of derring-do. A Nova Scotian, Foster sailed a 30-foot boat alone when he was 10, trapped animals at the age of 14, became a professional boxer, prospected for gold and so on. Name it and he's done it.

Foster also once told me a tart, true philosophical approach to the ridiculous business of acquiring wealth, yachts and 40-room mansions: "The piling-up of possessions is regarded with such approval that many incompetent strive to do all their lives. Monkeys and blue-jays also collect bright objects."

A few weeks ago, the people who run the This Is Your Life television program lured Hal out to California and then, while millions of home viewers looked on, gave him the treatment. They dredged up friends he hadn't seen in 30 years, surrounded him with partners, pals and business associates and in general raked over the 62 years of Foster's time on earth.

Incidentally, I never quite believed before that the victims on that show were entirely surprised, but Hal says yes—at least as far as he was concerned. Swears he didn't suspect a thing. On the other hand, he is a trusting, innocent man, something like Prince Valiant.

All I could think of while he talked, was: suppose it was me? I shuddered. It is true that every man likes to darken his past a bit, in retrospect, to make him a more glamorous figure—but it is also true that they could bring some pretty tasty items up from the bottom of the sea to confront me.

For instance—what exactly would I say if the curtains parted on-stage and out came the girl I took on the senior high school boat ride... who ended up ditching me for another guy? "Hello, Dorothy?"

Suppose they uncovered the former employer—he was a trade magazine editor—whose payroll list I left by simply walking out and leaving an agonized note. "Dave? I can't stand it any longer. Goodbye?" Or the other employer—a publisher—who wouldn't approve my bid for a Nieman fellowship at Harvard because he said he had spent four years there and hadn't learned a thing, whereupon I looked at him coldly and said, "You are a fool!"

I am sure they would unearth Oscar Unterberger, my mother's old grocer, from whom I successfully stole chocolate cookies at the age of 8. Or suppose they confronted me with Alice Mangle (they did her life recently, too), who walked out on a boat about her that we were doing, whereupon I stuck pins in effigies of her for seven months? What would I say to her—"Hello, Alice?"

Well, I guess Hal's life has not been as flicked with unfortunate episodes as mine, because he told me he got through the business all right. "It was like having a reunion up there on the telecasting stage," he said. "So I just sat back and enjoyed it. Of course, I was stunned and in a comatose state. But I was too numb to be nervous." I asked him what he did to come out of this trance-later. "Had a drink, naturally," he said.

The funny thing about that night, he said, was that they almost didn't let him into the theater studio. "They fetched Helen (his wife) and me to the place just at the last minute—and there were three ushers in front of the doors."

"You can't go in," the ushers said, stony-faced. "The show's about to go on." They meant it, too," he grinned. "And the publicity man bringing me couldn't tip his mitt and say, 'Listen, they're doing this guy's life.' Finally, however, they talked their way in and walked down the aisle just in time to hear Terry Moore say to the m. e., "I think we ought to do Hal Foster's life." Whooey.

Lions Hear Safe-Driving Essay Winners

Stroudsburg Lions in dinner session last night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel were hosts to the student winners in the safe driving contest held under Lions auspices. The club distributed cash prizes to the young people, elected club for the coming year and transacted other club business.

The winners from the East Stroudsburg student body were Miss Barbara Epple, Miss Joyce Leap and Harvey J. Miller in the order named. The Stroudsburg winners, also in the order named were Peter Westbrook, John Swartley and Della Serfass. The prizes were of fifteen, ten and five dollars respectively.

The young people were introduced by Jack Kist and Bill Keim respectively of the East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg faculties. Lion President William Hinton asked relative to student participation in teen-age safety problems, a movement now having an upsurge of activity throughout the country.

Mr. Kist said that there had been a meeting along this line held at State Teacher College recently and that there was admirable participation from the East Stroudsburg school. Mr. Keim said that in the Stroudsburg school much attention had been given to teen-age responsibility in safety matters, and he added that all three of the prize winners in his school were among the active students in this connection.

Floyd Butz served as chairman of the essay committee.

The first prize essays were read by the authors.

Milton Gariss, appointed to represent the club in conference with the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association on the possibility of bringing Route 611 down Lower Godfrey's Ridge to the west of the borough, submitted a set of resolutions on the same. The resolution was placed on the club bulletin. It will be voted on later.

New officers were elected as follows: President, Ed Driebe; first vice, Seymour Katz; second vice, Harold Miller; third vice, Joe McCluskey; treasurer, Harold Snyder; secretary, Henry Reader, lion tamer, William Thomas; lion tamer, Henry Wider; directors, two years, Enghood and Kintz, one year, Kovarik and Kopenhaver.

The above will constitute the club's new board of officers.

The circus to be sponsored by the club will be held next week. The members were urged to be active in the sale of tickets.

Leo Achterman and William Schible asked for volunteers to affix the new reflector tape to the bicycles of all persons asking the same as a safety measure.

John Reagan reported on the coming trip to the United Nations which will be held next week under club auspices. Several carloads will make up the party.

Incoming President Driebe said he will attend the state convention in Philadelphia June 6, 7, and 8.

Woman's Day To Be Marked

Salvation Army will hold Woman's Day today starting at 11 a.m. Mrs. James Hepburn, a brigadier from Scranton, will give the devotional message.

Women attending will bring a box lunch. The corps will serve coffee and tea. Schedule calls for: baking contest at 1:30 p.m.; meeting at 2; tea-time at 3; meeting continued at 3:45 with Brigadier Ruth Brindley, New York City, and Mrs. Charles Baker presiding; musical program with each woman's family invited, 7:30.

The day is sponsored by the Army's Ladies Home League. A program has been arranged for children, and Mildred Fuller will be in charge of the nursery.

Barrett Y Branch To Be Finished In June, Board Of Directors Told; Reports Given

The first floor of the Barrett Y branch of the Monroe County YMCA is expected to be ready for occupancy the latter part of June.

A report to this effect was given at a meeting of the Y directors at the Wyckoff tearoom last night. The second floor apartment is expected to be finished the fore part of June, it was brought out.

General Secretary John R. Wilson gave the report for Rev. Harold N. MacMurray, the president, who is attending the Methodist conference in Philadelphia.

The report also brought out that a cottage at Buck Hill Falls had donated a large refrigerator for use in the kitchen of the new branch.

The board was informed that Leslie W. Hay had offered a used electric range for $230 which had been approved by the building committee and purchase of the same was authorized.

The board also approved payment of $3,354.53 to Charles L. Frank, contractor, for the Barrett branch. The payment had been certified by the architects, Rinker and Kiefer.

Carlton C. Chopp, director of youth work for the Y, gave a report on activities.

One of these was individual service in which 70 persons had been contacted. In the division of definite enrollment, he said there were 11 groups with 254 young people participating, including 115 girls. He also reported six special events with 116 taking part.

The board authorized the officers of the Barrett branch to enter into a contract with the furnishing and equipment bureau of the National YMCA, New York City, to make a survey of the needs of the new unit and submit bids on cost.

Two bills certified by the architects of the new building, Stroudsburg, were ordered paid. One was for $6,528.60 for H. L. Cleveland, plumbing, the other for $583 for Mat Kime, electrician.

Secretary Wilson in his report on activities of adult groups commended the Graduate Sorority which includes raising funds to send Mary Scheller to the national convention in Colorado.

He also said the Y Mothers Club was raising funds to complete the pledge for the new building.

Progress is being made in the formation of the Mount Pocono branch, Wilson said. A permanent committee has been appointed to take the necessary steps. Berne F. Cramer is head of a group planning to raise a budget of $1,000 for the new branch.

Holt Wyckoff, the president, presided over the meeting which was also attended by the following: C. A. Keiper, A. F. Everitt, Merle C. Ostrom, Jesse Flory, Ted Hoffman, J. Albert Groner, R. M. Houser, J. L. Cohen, Dr. Claude Leister, newly elected trustee, who was welcomed; Alex Bensinger, Thomas Kistler, Horace G. Walters, A. J. Zahriske, D. W. Frankenkfield, Dr. J. F. Noonan, James Kison, Mrs. Clifford Heller and Secretaries Wilson and Chopp.

workmen have not been physically interfered with in the performance of their duties at the Y premises. It further shows, the court relates, that no contractor other than the plaintiff, with minor exceptions, has done any work on the construction of the building since picketing began on Sept. 28, 1953.

The court notes that Cleveland testified reason he could not proceed further with his contract was that other contractors had not proceeded with their work to the point where the building was in a position for installation of plumbing.

"Neither the YMCA nor any contractor connected with the construction of the new building, except the plaintiff, is before the Court," Judge Davis points out.

Before delving into the question of the preliminary restraint, Judge Davis asks whether Cleveland would suffer such "irreparable damage" by reasons of time required to have "this matter determined finally" to warrant imposition of a preliminary restraining order.

Judge Davis says testimony shows that Cleveland and his

88-Year-Old Saylorsburg Woman Dies

Mrs. Lydia Detrick, 88, of Saylorsburg, died at her home at 2 a.m. yesterday, following a month's illness.

Born in Tannersville, she was the daughter of Philip and Margaret Werkheiser Learn. She was of the Lutheran faith. She spent the past 18 years in Saylorsburg, and before that lived in Snyder'sville.

Her husband, Aredus L. Detrick, died about 40 years ago.

She was the last of 10 brothers and sisters.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Detrick, Saylorsburg, and Mrs. Evelyn Warfel, Washington, N. J.; six sons, Howard, Harry, Walter, Wilton and Wilson, all of Snyder'sville, and Leroy of Washington, N. J.; 11 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Warner funeral home, Stroudsburg, with Rev. Adan Bohner officiating. Burial will be at Kellersville Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. Thursday.

509 X-Rayed During Day

Despite a mechanical breakdown the mobile X-ray unit took X-rays of 509 Monroe residents yesterday in two locations.

At East Stroudsburg High School yesterday morning, the unit gave X-rays to 280 students.

At Tobyhanna Township School in Pocono Pines during the afternoon, the X-ray machine broke down for more than an hour. It was repaired by 3:30 p.m., however, in time to X-ray students before they left the school on buses for their homes.

A total of 229 Pocono Pines residents and students were X-rayed by the unit.

Yesterday's number of residents getting the free X-ray brings the grand total to 4,539 Monroe county residents who have received the X-rays so far.

Today the unit will be at the following locations:

Delaware Water Gap fire house from 10 a.m. to noon; Tannersville schoolhouse (Pocono Township School) from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.; at the Tannersville fire house from 3:30 to 5 p.m. and at the Mount Pocono fire house from 7 to 9 p.m.

Church Society To Hold Election

Holy Name Society of St. Matthew's parish will meet at 8 p.m. today at St. Matthew's School auditorium in East Stroudsburg.

Officers will be elected for 1954-1955. Installation will be made in June.

Reynolds Cross-Examines Swink About Treatment Of Van Horn At Police Station

Trial of two men charged with turning in false fire alarms in East Stroudsburg enters its third day today in Monroe County Court.

The Commonwealth still has not rested its case against James Reynolds, 30, of 428 Birch St., East Stroudsburg, and Eugene VanHorn, also of that borough.

East Stroudsburg Police Chief Arthur Swink was the last of three witnesses called by District Attorney Elmer D. Christine yesterday.

Swink's testimony concerned events at the borough police station Feb. 15 after four young men were accused of turning in two false fire alarms. They were Reynolds and VanHorn, and David Miller of Stroudsburg and William Schoonover, East Stroudsburg.

Reynolds and VanHorn have retained no attorney, are acting as their own counsel.

Yesterday Reynolds cross-examined the police chief on the precise manner in which Swink "took VanHorn by the neck, shook him and sat him down on a chair."

Under direct examination earlier Swink said he had not threatened, manhandled, slapped or used force on any of the defendants and hadn't promised any of them anything.

However he said he did "touch" VanHorn. He then went on to describe the neck-seizing incident.

The chief said only he, VanHorn and Miller were in the station at the time. VanHorn was sitting in a chair in a "half crouch with his foot raised," said Swink. "I thought he was going to kick me, so I took him by the neck, shook him and sat him in the chair."

The police chief said VanHorn did not cry out or say anything, and added that Miller did not see what happened because he was standing with his back turned.

It was brought out that VanHorn had signed a statement admitting he turned in a false fire alarm. The chief said he did not use force or threats to secure VanHorn's statement.

Swink said he took Miller and VanHorn separately into the adjoining room, part of the fire hall, to question them. Officer Don Quick was with him on these occasions, he said.

Finally Miller confessed turning in a false alarm, Swink claimed. Reentering the police station, Miller said "You might as well tell the truth. I told Swink the whole story," the chief testified. Then, Swink said, VanHorn "told his story."

Miller was first on the stand in the morning. He testified for the State. Miller is the only one of the four who has pleaded guilty of turning in a false fire alarm. Sentence was deferred by President Judge Fred W. Davis. Schoonover has not pleaded guilty in county court, but did so at arraignment before Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bomser, East Stroudsburg.

Yesterday both Schoonover and Miller testified for the State.

The gist of his story is that at 4:20 a. m. he and VanHorn were at the fire alarm box near Huey's

Andrew Lee, 57, Succumbs To Illness

Andrew J. Lee, 57, of 207 King St., East Stroudsburg, died at 6 a.m. yesterday at Moses Taylor Hospital, Scranton, following a long illness.

An East Stroudsburg native, he had spent most of his life there. He was a World War One Navy veteran who served at Puget Sound; East Scranton Memorial Post No. 966, American Legion; Methodist faith; Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers of Scranton. He was a DL&W Railroad employe for 37 years until his retirement two years ago. He was also a member of Lackawanna Railroad Veterans Association.

He was the son of the late Warren and Fanny Decker Lee.

Surviving are his wife, Hazel Cramer Lee; daughter, Mrs. Richard Greiner, Stroudsburg; three brothers, George, Stewart and Walter, all of East Stroudsburg; a sister, Mrs. Arlington Andrew of Saylorsburg; nieces and nephews.

Services will be at 2:30 p.m. Friday at Lanterman funeral home, East Stroudsburg, with Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating, assisted by Rev. Mark E. Kroehler of Myrtle St. Methodist Church in Scranton.

Burial will be at Prospect Cemetery, East Stroudsburg.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. Thursday.

repeatedly during cross-examination to refrain from repeating each answer given by a witness.

Christine entered a number of objections, most of them on two grounds—that Reynolds was asking questions about material not covered during the direct examination—and that Reynolds was attempting to establish his defense by using State's witnesses.

VanHorn asked a few of the questions during cross-examination. "When we entered the county jail," he queried Schoonover, "did you ask if that was me being slapped around and did I say that that was why I signed the confession?" Schoonover said he thought he recalled that.

The hearing resumes this morning with Mr. Christine still presenting the State's side of the case.

Clay Tile Now Available For Home Owners

DO-IT-YOURSELF handymen, with their demand for tiled bathrooms, kitchen walls and what-not, have scored another victory in securing the clay tile industry to make its product available over the counter.

In the past, the real McGuy-in-ceramic tile was usually available only through contractors who would install it. The reason for that was the difficulty of proper installation. No one wanted to take a chance on a novice starting at the studs in a wall, waterproofing a wall, applying a scratch coat of cement and then a mortar setting bed for tile. The job called for skill and precision.

TODAY, HOWEVER, you can buy tile across the counter in large cities — notably New York and Pittsburgh — as well as in many other communities and the trend is spreading rapidly. Dealers apparently have decided that it is better to make a sale than have a frustrated home owner buy a substitute material.

They also may be aware that the consequent demand for real tile could stimulate a demand for more difficult projects, such as tiled shower stalls with tiled ceilings, which amateurs would not care to tackle.

The development of special adhesives obviously was a big factor in breaking the barrier to the tile market for the do-it-yourself man.

THESE NEW adhesives make it possible to install tile right over any existing wall or floor that is in good condition. Tiles are simply "pasted" in place. The adhesives have the same waterproof qualities and the same lasting qualities as the tile itself.

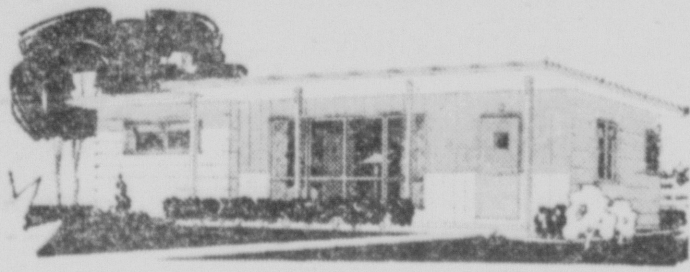

Simple tools are required for a do-it-yourself job. A special trowel can be bought along with the adhesive. A carpenter's level, a straightedge board, a steel wheel glass cutter, plumb lines and a carbundum stone fill the bill.

The first step is to measure carefully the area to be tiled. Make sure that the surfaces are free of grease, calcimine or other material that can interfere with the bond of the adhesive. Be certain that the surfaces are plumb. Any variations from plumb and smooth walls will be exaggerated in the surface of your tile.

IT'S A GOOD idea to take a sketch of the room to your tile dealer, so he can visualize any special trim pieces needed. Then see that any adhesive you buy from him bears a trademark stating, "Meeting Commercial Standard Specifications, CS181-52." This is an assurance that the adhesive is water resistant. A gallon of adhesive should be enough to set 45 to 50 square feet of tile.

In addition to the adhesive and special trowel, you'll need a solvent to clean tools and finished tilework, as well as a waterproof grout for the joints between tiles. With some adhesives you'll need a primer for areas which may have been damaged by water. With others, you can thin the adhesive and use it as a primer.

DON'T SMOKE on this job! Both adhesives and solvents are flammable, so put out nearby pilot lights and other flames and open windows.

Some adhesive manufacturers recommend soaking wall tiles in clean water for an hour before installation. But no water should be left on the surface of the tile. Floor tiles glued to sheets are never soaked.

Establish a level line for the bottom row of tiles, because this is the row in which cuts must be made. No room is truly level. Your carpenter's level and straightedge are important at this stage.

SET THE bottom row of tile by putting a small quantity of adhesive on the back of each tile in the center. Each tile is then placed against the wall with a twisting motion. Some tiles have lugs on all sides — warts to space them automatically. Lacking lugs, the tiles should be spaced 1/32nd to 1/16th inch apart. This spacing can be done with ordinary tooth-picks.

After the bottom row is set, spread a thin coat of adhesive over several more square feet of wall area, leaving no bare spots and proceed with the same slight twisting motion for each tile.

Family Room Big Aid In Small House

HOME OWNERS plagued by lack of space for a growing family are turning, in increasing numbers, to the "family room" idea.

More than a recreation or rum-pus room, this area is really a supplementary living room, with ease of maintenance emphasized in walls, floors and equipment. Leading architects recommend that dingy basement space be remodeled for this purpose, with simple-to-clean floors, washable built-in furniture, and plenty of storage space for game materials.

BECAUSE THE "family room" takes the wear and tear off the rest of the house, it often has its own simple kitchen facilities, including a washroom and shower accommodations as well.

In some of the more advanced plans for this type of room, radio and television receivers are built in as part of the original wall design, along with permanent double-deck sleeping bunks for overnight guests.

IF THE basement is not large enough to allow a typical living room arrangement of furniture, the carpenter can build comfortable benches along the walls, so that middle-of-the-room space may be allotted to game tables.

Because the "family room" may be as varied as the living needs which inspire it, there is no set formula for its plan, except that it should consider all types of activities and be simple to keep clean.

its initial set — in about an hour or so — the excess grout can be removed from the tile work with a damp cloth and the tile can be polished with a dry cloth. The joints between all tiles, however, should be wet with a sponge several times during the next few days to make the grout cure thoroughly.

Check Basic Features Before Buying House To Remodel

BUYING AN OLD HOME was a view toward remodeling and modernizing it is frequently a wise move, but if you're considering such a plan be sure the house is structurally sound before you close the deal. That's the advice of building experts, who point out that only a structurally sound house is worth remodeling.

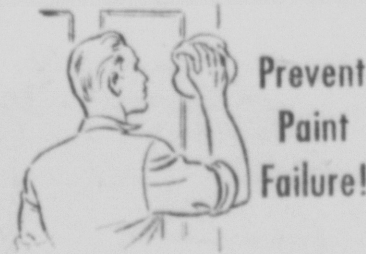

The safe procedure is to check the dwelling thoroughly. Often the most serious faults of a house are hidden. The foundation may be cracked or sunken, the sills and floor joists may be rotted, or there may be severe termite damage. First floor joists often can be inspected from the basement, although it sometimes is necessary to rip up a portion of flooring to see them. Termite damage usually can be detected by picking at the wood with an ice pick.

IT GENERALLY pays to have a building expert inspect a house under consideration, since he is qualified to pass judgment on its true merits. Occasionally an expert will find that it is feasible to correct even serious flaws in a dwelling by replacing damaged structural materials.

Interior remodeling usually presents no baffling problems. Walls often can be knocked out or partitions added to effect the desired room arrangement. If a house has old-fashioned high ceilings, these may be lowered by applying false ceilings at the preferred height.

Hammer Clears Pipes

RUST IN water pipes can often be removed by opening a faucet in the line and then tapping on the pipe with a hammer. The force of the hammer breaks particles of the corrosion loose and they are carried out of the pipe by the flow of the water.

WIL-BOND before Repainting

A glossy varnished or enameled surface should be cleaned and dulled before repainting. It's easy with WIL-BOND. Just dampen a rag with this liquid and rub down the surface. Off come wax, grease and dirt — and the gloss is thoroughly dulled. The new finish spreads smoothly and adheres perfectly — no danger of a streaky, unsightly result.

Methodists Convene In Philadelphia

A number of Monroe County residents will attend sessions of the Philadelphia Annual Methodist Conference this week in Philadelphia. The conference opens today and closes Sunday.

One of the highlights will be held Sunday at 3:30 p. m. at the Philadelphia Academy of Arts. Bishop Fred Pierce Corson of the Philadelphia Area will speak on "Christ's Challenge to Youth."

Some 1,500 young people from churches of the conference will be seated in a reserved section. Hymns of the church will be sung by 250 youth voices under the leadership of Dr. Jesse B. Zerr, Wayne.

Bishop Corson will install the newly elected officers of the conference Methodist Youth Fellowship. At the consecration service, Bishop Corson will give the young people the opportunity to commit their lives to full time Christian service and become a member of "The Bishop's Crusaders," now numbering over 3,000 youth in four continents.

For this occasion the stage of the Academy of Music will be transformed to give the appearance of a church. A huge gold cross will be suspended against a maroon reredos rising above a high altar, with candles and an open Bible. Palms and other greens will add beauty to the setting.

During the service, Bishop Corson, assisted by Bishop Shot K. Mongel, president of the National Christian Council of India, will ordain to the Christian ministry 14 elders and 22 deacons. This will be a most impressive part of the service when, kneeling at a specially constructed altar rail, these young men will receive the Orders of their Church. Others taking part in the ordination service will include the bishop's cabinet, Dr. Alexander K. Smith, Dr. Leon T. Moore, Rev. Paul W. Foley and Rev. Frederick E. Maser. Each candidate for ordination is also entitled to choose from the elders of the conference two persons to assist.

Following the ordination service the ministerial appointments of the conference for the coming year will be read by Bishop Corson.

Leo Lania, Speaker Here Thursday Night, Authored Books On Hitler And Benes

Leo Lania, roving editor of World magazine and veteran foreign correspondent, who has just returned from an extended visit to Europe and the Middle East, will speak at Temple Israel Thursday night in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal.

Mr. Lania, who has been described as a survivor of two world wars, three revolutions, four concentration camps and 50 years of news reporting, returned home recently following a six month roving assignment covering cold war developments west and east of the Iron Curtain.

His assignment took him into the Soviet orbit, into the turmoil-ridden countries of the Moslem world, and into the new state of Israel.

Mr. Lania, who speaks four languages and reads three more, was one of the first newspaper men ever to interview, and for ten days actually to live with, a man named Adolph Hitler. That was in 1923, and was followed by his best-selling book entitled "Hitler: The Grave-Digger of Germany." The Nazi dictator later described Mr. Lania as "the most dangerous enemy of National Socialist Germany."

In 1940, when the Nazis overran France, Hitler handed the Vichy Government a list of 140 most wanted "criminals." Mr. Lania's name was near the top. Although captured and imprisoned in a Vichy concentration camp, Mr. Lania escaped before he could be turned over to the Nazis, and finally reached the United States in 1941.

Mr. Lania was also the last known newspaper man to interview Czech President Eduard Benes. His next book, his 16th, is entitled "The Mysterious Death of Jan Masaryk," and analyzes the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

In addition to his newspaper role, Mr. Lania is a playwright and lecturer. He wrote the first screen play that starred Hedy Lamarr and is credited with her discovery in a Berlin dramatic school.

FFA Awards Presented At Bangor

Bangor—Presentation of awards highlighted the 15th annual parent and son banquet of Bangor High School's Future Farmers of America chapter held at the Christ Evangelical and Reformed Church, Stone Church, with 200 in attendance.

Keystone Farmer degrees and coveted gold keys were presented to Leon Ott, Marvin Williams, John Hahn, and Earle Jennings, all members of the Bangor Chapter. The presentation was made by Frank B. Miller Jr., Bangor RD, state vice president and past-president of the Bangor Chapter.

An award presented by the Northampton County Farm Bureau Association was given to Ott for field corn yield.

Project awards were presented by W. B. Frisbie, vocational agriculture supervisor for Northampton and Monroe Counties. The awards were as follows: gold emblems to Paul Lockard for small grain and dairy calves project; Miller and Orin Stevens for dairy calves; silver emblem to Jennings for dairy calves; and a bronze emblem to Larry Yetter for truck farming.

Frisbie also presented the FFA chapter award for all-around farmer to Eldon Stevens; and the all-around farm mechanic to Kenneth Fisher.

Principal speaker was Prof. Frank Anthony, Penn State University, farm mechanics specialist in agricultural education.

Prof. Anthony presented an illustrated lecture on agriculture in Syria and Lebanon where he recently completed five years study and teaching under an exchange program. Anthony was introduced by George Ott Sr., faculty adviser to FFA and teacher of agriculture at Bangor High School.

Other speakers included Superintendent of Schools Donald B. Keal, of Bangor, and Trevor R. Williams, principal of Bangor High School. Bangor Chapter honorary degrees were presented to Charles H. Unanue, Northampton County controller, and to Markley Reichard, president of the Blue Valley Farm Show Association sponsored by the Bangor Exchange Club.

SPECTATORS crowded around 74-year-old Arthur Richards, who has 20 grandchildren, and young Larry Schock, 23, as they battled for two and one half hours recently in Lakeland, Fla. Finally, Schock defeated his older opponent, but in turn was beaten by another in one of the fastest growing sports in America—shuffleboard. Some 43 clubs sent 417 players to the three-day world series of shuffleboard. Winners were determined in each bracket by taking two out of three games, each one totaling 75 points. Games were held under rules of the National Shuffleboard association and tournament was sponsored by a Dayton, O., manufacturer. Taking the "Kalamazoo," or clean sweep, of the tourney were Webster Smith of Kissimmee, Fla., and Mae Hall of St. Petersburg. Losers at least got a good suntan and are certain to return to the tourney next year in Orlando, Fla.

Seniors To Be Advised Of Job Prospects Here

Seniors in 10 Monroe and Pike County high schools will be given an insight into job possibilities in the Pocono labor market area through the medium of a job guide being issued by the local Pennsylvania State Employment Service office.

Carl Denz, acting manager of the East Stroudsburg office said yesterday the guide will provide a brief appraisal of employment prospects for students about to enter the local labor picture.

Aimed principally at seniors who will graduate in May and become eligible for work, the guides will be issued through school principals who have been asked to cooperate in the program.

Denz terms the innovation here "a further expansion of our service to the community at large and to the graduate student primarily."

The manager terms the outlook for work in the Poconos "excellent," noting the demand for help here will exceed the supply, barring unforeseen developments.

According to Denz the normal demand for workers at resorts is augmented by demands on local labor by staffing at Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot. He said by December this $33 million depot expects to have about 3,500 workers, some of whom may be transferred here from Baltimore, Md., where a depot closed.

Denz says about 12,000 persons are at work in the Poconos.

Slightly over 10 per cent are employed year-round in mountain hotels and resorts. But at the season's peak, July-August, Denz points out, resort employment soars to about 3,500 to 4,000.

A continuance of the widespread demand for grade and secondary school teachers, registered and practical nurses and other technical workers.

Graduates about to enter the labor market will find it advantageous to visit the local PSSE office, Denz said. Information on specific jobs is available there.

The East Stroudsburg office annually sponsors aptitude tests for student job-seekers in an effort to place them in the right occupation, Denz explained. Further interviews are open to any student on request.

The job guide points out specific occupations or fields of work available in the Poconos region. Categories are classified as professional and managerial, clerical, sales work, service occupations, technical and skilled jobs and unskilled.

An immediate need exists for technically trained workers, Denz said. These occupations command excellent salaries, Denz comments, but in all cases applicants must qualify by experience, college degree or passing state examinations.

Demand in the clerical field is somewhat limited, the guide notes. But staffing Tobyhanna will be extensive in this category and will probably be sufficient to absorb the readily available labor supply. Passing a Civil Service exam is a requisite, the guide reports. Salaries range from $35 to $50 weekly and higher, it concludes.

No volume demand is available under sales clerks. Females over 18 are generally specified, the guide says. Work is "over-the-counter" variety and requires personality and courteous manner. Wages from 75 to 80 cents an hour, while some other branches of sales return higher earnings, $75 to $100 weekly, the guide reports.

Special emphasis is placed on the service field because of the summer vacation work.

Both male and female jobs are available here, wages are attractive and generally include room and board, the guide said. Tips in most jobs are liberal, it points out, and in many cases no experience is necessary.

A substantial number of technical and skilled jobs are currently available in the Poconos, the guide reports. But for practically all classes, a specified amount of prior experience is needed. On-the-job training programs and apprenticeships often are available in this field. Wages once a journeyman status is achieved usually range from $1.50 to $3 an hour, with building crafts the highest paid, the guide says.

Numerous openings are available under unskilled and entry job classifications. Principle requisites are strong bodies and willingness to work. Wages vary from 75 cents to $1.75 hourly.

Boy Uninjured In Collision With Vehicle

Gary Storm, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Storm, Stroudsburg, was taken to the General Hospital dispensary yesterday morning after a mishap on W. Main St.

The lad, according to the driver, Mrs. John Parker, Stroudsburg RD 2, walked into the street and was struck by the side of her car. Examination at the hospital revealed the boy wasn't hurt, and he was released to return home.

Treated and released on Monday were Sandra Staples, 23 months, of East Stroudsburg RD2, who fell down a flight of cellar steps, cutting her forehead.

Donald Kitchen, 15, of Delaware Water Gap, bruised his right foot on a rock after jumping from a tree.

Buick now outsells all other cars in its price class and above

YOU'VE probably noticed it right in your own neighborhood.

Bright new Buicks appearing here, there, everywhere. And more and more of them in recent weeks.

Know what's happening?

Folks in growing numbers — (and maybe you'll be joining them soon!) — are finding Buick styling, performance and value far too wonderful to pass up.

So Buick is selling at a record pace — outselling all other cars in its price class and above.

Matter of fact, latest figures for the first quarter of 1954 show that, in total national volume, Buick is out-selling every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three."

A look and a ride and a peek at the price tag will be all you'll need to know what's back of this best-selling success.

There's styling in Buick that's the greatest beauty advance in years — the very look of tomorrow — and with the spectacular panoramic windshield that's part and parcel of this dream-car look.

There's performance in Buick as never before — with record-high V8 power, with the sensationally smooth whip of Twin-Turbine Dynaflo, with the buoyant ride of all-coil-springing, with a new precision of control and handling.

And there's value in Buick that's hard to match — with prices starting near the "low-price three" — prices that buy more Buick beauty and power and thrill and sheer automobile than smart money ever bought before.

How about you?

Are you ready, willing and waiting to be shown that this best seller called Buick is the buy of the year for you, too? Drop in this week, or give us a call, and we'll arrange a demonstration.

Miss Edith King McCagg

R. Anderson Engaged To Edith McCagg

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ogden McCagg of Providence, Rhode Island, and Stonington, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Edith King, to Richard N. Anderson, New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Anderson Sr., of New York and formerly of Stroudsburg.

Miss McCagg, who attended The Chapin School in New York, was graduated from The Mary C. Wheeler School, Providence, and Briarcliff College, Briarcliff Manor, New York. The prospective bride was introduced to society in December, 1949 at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stuckney, 1220 Park Ave., New York. She is also the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William McCagg of New York and Newport, Rhode Island. Miss McCagg is an assistant editor of Better Living, a McCall's Publication.

Mr. Anderson was graduated from Stroudsburg High School in 1935. He served in Germany and during the Korean War with U. S. Army Special Services. The prospective bridegroom is a member of The Class of 1951, Columbia College, New York and The Columbia University Club, also of that city. He is with Foote, Cone and Belding, New York Advertising Agency.

A wedding in August is planned.

Party At Sciota

Sciota Rebekah Lodge is planning a card party for Friday, May 14, to follow the business meeting at 7:45. The party will be open to the public and will begin at 8:30. Refreshments will be served.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Everybody's writing letters to the editors about something: The YMCA, the by-pass, the detour, the wage tax. Well, the social page could use a few letters, too, maybe judging by the three pictures which arrived in today's mail.

The pictures are delightful, the girls sound charming, and we admire our lads' taste and discrimination but nevertheless that's three less lads for local lassies to marry.

So maybe the theme of your letters could be "Are Our Girls Being By-Passed?" or something. Actually, it sort of even up. Certainly everyone there's something like the pipe line or bridge construction, job, or even the Poconos Ball Club, our girls took their share of the young men who came with the job, or the team.

However, you can see where the social page, too, needs to watch with interest any new industry moving into the area. The merchants may think in terms of trade, the Chamber of Commerce in terms of expansion—but on the social page thinks in terms of weddings.

However, all will be forgiven if you bring your wives home, boys.

Mrs. Stadfeld President Of Logan Society

Mrs. Max Stadfeld was elected president of the Anna Logan Society of the General Hospital at the meeting held on Monday night at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church. Mrs. Anna Meixell presided at the meeting which preceded a work session with members working on prizes for the summer card parties.

Other officers included Mrs. Horace Butler, first vice president; Mrs. William Shearer, second vice president; Mrs. Harry Sutton, secretary; Mrs. Herbert Rupperecht, treasurer; Mrs. Maxwell Cohen, assistant treasurer; and Mrs. Kenneth Skeldon, corresponding secretary.

During the business session, further plans were discussed for the first summer card party to be held June 28 at 2 p.m. at Camp Tamiment. It was announced that transportation to the party could be arranged by calling Mrs. M. J. Stadfeld.

The society plans to close its season with a picnic on June 14 at the Stroudsburg playgrounds. In case of rain, the picnic will be held at the Methodist Church. The team captains will serve as hostesses for the picnic and will provide the rolls and coffee. Team captains for this past year have been Mrs. Melvin Fetterhoff, Miss Isabelle Finn, Mrs. Leonard Houlose, Mrs. Kenneth Risley, Mrs. James Gavin and Mrs. James Mader.

Archery Shoot, Square Dance For PTA Meeting

Pocono Pines—The May meeting of the Tobyhanna Township Parent Teacher Association, to be held at the school house Thursday, May 13 at 7:45 p.m. will be a very gala and important one. At this meeting election of officers for the coming year will be held. All members are urged to attend.

Immediately following the business session there will be an archery shoot, sponsored by the Pocono Bowman Field Archery Club, Junior Division. The Junior Division is open to all boys and girls in the Community between the ages of seven and sixteen years. No previous archery ability or experience is necessary for the young people to join the club. During this demonstration of what the young people have accomplished in the archery field, there will be an awarding of pins already earned in the various classes, as well as competitive shooting for advanced award pins. All youngsters in the community interested in archery are being especially invited to this demonstration.

Since many youngsters are expected at this final meeting of the PTA year each child must be accompanied by at least one parent—their own or a "borrowed" one, a special playlet "Storybook Land" will be presented. This skit was written and will be directed and narrated by Mrs. William Staples of Blakeslee. A large cast will take part.

The final highlight of the evening will be a demonstration by the Pocono Pines Square Dance Club. This group, sponsored by the TTTHS Parent Teacher Association, dances every other Wednesday at the school house. Mr. Bill Person, leader of the Group, says he hopes that after they demonstrate how easy, and how much fun square dancing is, everyone will join in when he invites "everybody dance" to close the festivities.

Campus School Students Visit Philadelphia

The fifth and sixth grades of the laboratory school at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College spent a day in Philadelphia last week when they toured the Franklin Institute, the Planetarium and Independence Hall.

Two bus-loads of singing youngsters under the direction of the supervisors, Miss Josephine B. Kerns and Marvin E. Burrus, and six student teachers, John Lambert, Donald Williams, Leonard Tolan, Lloyd Newbaker, George Colonius and George Waters.

They left the college gates at 8:30 a. m. and arrived at Franklin Institute at noon. A tour of the institute was climaxed by an exhibition by Westinghouse on "Energy in Action". Afterwards they saw the showing of "Destination Saturn" in the planetarium where the illusion of being in a space ship was so real that one student really believed that he was in a space ship.

A bus trip through the central city included a stop at Independence Hall where the students were taken on a guided tour of the building and visited the Liberty Bell.

GOOD EVENING!

One of the several places one can go for an enjoyable evening outside of Stroudsburg is ONAWA LODGE, on Route No. 90, in Mountainhome, only 16 easy driving miles from the Boroughs.

Get away from the "usual routine" and benefit from a cool evening with friends in a congenial atmosphere. The Onawa Trio is now playing for dancing on Friday nights without any special cover or minimum charges, and the quality of the food and beverage service is comparable to that which you are accustomed to in any first class hotel.

Dinner is served daily between 6:30 and 7:30 P.M. (D.S.T.). An attractive Cocktail Hour, featuring special canapes, begins at 5:30 P.M. (Bar is closed on Sundays.) A choice of entrees is provided and reservations for Dinner are suggested but not a requisite. Further information may be obtained by calling Cresco 3311.

We firmly believe that you will tell your friends about the nice time you had at ONAWA LODGE. The Pocono Playhouse will not open until later on, but after Dinner you might enjoy seeing the scheduled motion pictures at nearby Buck Hill (usually Mon.-Wed.-Fri.-Sat.)

Enjoy an evening "away from town" at a nominal expense. We invite you to join our guests for cocktails and a wonderful dinner.

Come on up and bring your friends. Enjoy a different "night out."

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

My sister-in-law has always been baffled by my futile attempts to make a truly fine gravy. My meat dishes are better than average, she says—but why can't I follow through with a good gravy? Time after time she's taken me step by step through the process, and so long as hers is the hand that holds the ladle, everything is fine. It's too bad, and my only satisfaction in the whole thing is the knowledge that I'm not the only housewife ever to be baffled by flour, water, and drippings.

Perhaps our salvation lies in a new gadget by Westmark called a "Fat-Oil". It's a highly polished aluminum ladle with an inner lip that instantly separates fat from lean as it pours gravy or broth into the serving dish. For $1 it is a shining promise of better food with less fuss. Good Gravy, but this is a welcome addition to the gadget drawer!

From Sheffield, England, come two other stainless, chrome-plated serving aids that will settle down into the American home as easily as though "to the manor born". The first is a preserve spoon with prongs attached so that at no time need the handle slide down into the sticky jams or jellies. Instead, when not actively dipping out sweets, the spoon can hang on the inside of the jar. Clever? Yes—and pretty too, for it has a neatly designed border that will blend with almost any silver service.

The other gadget is called a Serrall, and is actually just a small, dressed-up version of the typical wide spatula. Use it in the kitchen to lift fried goods easily and without spattering... bring it right in to the table for attractive serving.

Both of these imports are guaranteed and sell for 75c.

One of the children's Mother's Days gifts to their grandmother was the Burns combination spatula and cake knife, which retails at 85c. There is a serrated edge, guaranteed for the life of the knife, that does an excellent job not only on pastries but on meats, sandwiches, and vegetables. The blade is flexible, and wide enough to lift wedges of food safely to the serving plates. A white plastic handle is curved to fit firmly into the hand. This is the sort of gadget a housewife can enjoy, because you know and I know that most housewives are cut-ups from way back!

And just look at this! Cooper gives us copper in a skillet! The kitchen wall which is actually a thermometer decorated in white, with figures of a puffing north wind and a smiling sun. About 4 inches in diameter, this little frying pan is as bright as a platter of eggs sunny side up, and the price is only $1.

"What a value," we explained to Mabel Anderson. "It would look pretty on the wall, and if you'd neglected to wash the utensils at night you could use it to fry your breakfast egg. It would even tell the exact temperature at which you were frying."

"And it would break too," she argued. "It would, of course—so maybe we'd just hang it on the wall, and let it glow at that!"

Society Of 28th, Auxiliary, At Banquet

The Auxiliary and Gateway Post #56, Society of the 28th Div., held their fifth Annual Banquet at Daviduk's in Marshall Creek, Pa. on Saturday evening, May 8, 1954. 72 persons attended the affair.

George Frantz, a member of the Post acted as toastmaster. The invocation and benediction was given by the Post Chaplain, Richard Houser. Group singing was led by the Central Vice Commander, a member of the Post, Horatio Haas, Jr.

The following guests were introduced by the toastmaster, Edward Stegmayer, National Commander; Robert Seaman, National Vice Commander; Don Lapina, National Vice-at-Large; Horatio Haas, Jr., Central Vice Commander; Reginald Reid, Eastern Vice Commander; Mary Jane Pugh, National Vice President; Wanda Haas, National Historian; Vera Bury, Past National President and Americanism Chairman; and Ruth Koch, National Pianist.

The National Commander spoke briefly on the Memorial Services to be held at the Boudsburg Shrine, Boudsburg, Pa. on Sunday May 23 at 1:30 p.m. He asked everyone to be there if possible. June 5th will be graduation at Scotland School when 28 children are graduating. July 15, 16, 17 are the dates of the National Convention to be held in Wilkes-Barre. Further details will be given later.

Mary Jane Pugh, National Vice President also spoke briefly. She commended Post #56 on changing the name of the Post to "Gateway" which she realized as meaning a "Gateway to the Potomac."

The Toastmaster then introduced Stanley Smith, Commander of the Gateway Post #56 who introduced his officers. The President of the Auxiliary, Sarah Frantz was introduced and she in turn introduced her officers. Dancing followed the banquet.

R. J. Kloess Married In Geneva, N. Y.

Robert James Joseph Kloess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Kloess of 81 South St., East Stroudsburg, was married on Saturday morning, April 24, at 10 a.m. to Miss Marilyn Ann Overbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myrl F. Overbaugh, of 51 John St., Geneva, N. Y.

They were married by Rev. Walter J. Carron in St. Francis DeSales Church with the ceremony followed by a nuptial mass.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Francis Condit, of Newark, N. Y., wore a gown of white embroidered Swiss organdy over white tulle. The fitted bodice had a low round neckline and short sleeves. Tiers of ruffles started at the waist and swept down to a train at the back of the full skirt. She wore short matching gloves and carried white roses centered with a red-ribbon orchid. Her fingertip veil fell from a cap trimmed with seed pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls and a watch, which was the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Mary Jane Broderick, of Geneva, was the maid of honor. She wore a dress of pink net. Two of the bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Mathews of Geneva, N. Y., and Mrs. Harvey Burman, of East Stroudsburg, wore gowns of light green and two others, Mrs. Thomas Abbott, of Rochester, N. Y., and Mrs. Francis Paul, of Geneva, wore yellow. Their flowers were spring blossoms to match the color of their gowns.

Reva and Betty Abbott, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. They wore white organdy dresses and carried red roses and white carnations.

The Altar was decorated with baskets of spring flowers, gladioli, carnations and sweet peas. Miss Kay Brennan, of Geneva, N. Y., was soloist.

Robert Gotsky of the Sampson Air Force Base was best man, and the ushers included three from Sampson: Richard Myers, Jerry Esposito and Wayne Anderson, and Ned Cristiano of Pittsfield, Mass.

The bride's mother wore a navy suit with navy accessories and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy shantung dress and stole with

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Tobyhanna's entry in the Pocono Mountains Association may begin to show new strength in the near future, as the club managed by "Candy" Dailey has come up with two new and good baseball players. Jack Dunning and Ray Van Benseoten, both former stars with the Newfoundland Bears, played their initial contest with Tobyhanna last Sunday. Both were listed on the Hawley roster, Wayne County League, earlier this season. Frank Radler, former star pitcher and manager of the Stroudsburg Poconos, is no longer a member of the Saylorburg, Pocono Mountains League, roster.

Art Wall, tournament pro at Pocono Manor and a resident of Honesdale, informed this reporter by telephone that he would be at Pocono Manor sometime later this week. Art is currently resting at his home in Honesdale, where the people presented a royal "welcome home" party for the Tournament of Champions winner last week. Wall passed on the word that his game is slightly below par at the present time but believes that it is only a natural let down after winning one of the richest tournaments in golf history.

Wall will take part in the Piping Rock tournament, a one-day affair, out on Long Island on Monday and then travel to Baltimore for the Eastern Open on Tuesday. Art plans to rest for the remainder of the week and visit with his many friends. Jerry Stulgaitis, football and baseball coach at Stroudsburg High, refereed the championship match in the Shawnee Invitation Tournament on Sunday. Jerry is still talking about the fine band of golf played by Howard Everett, Atlantic City, who won the title for the first time after six tries.

Everitt will be in Monroe County much more than usual this summer. He sold his business in Atlantic City and is now connected with Waring Enterprises. Congratulations are in order for Harold White, recently named captain of the East Stroudsburg High school baseball team. The choice was first rate in this scribe's opinion. Jonathan Albright, son of Rev. and Mrs. Alton P. Albright, Gilbert, is currently holding down third base on the Haverford College baseball squad. Albright is a former baseball and basketball star at Polk High. He graduated in 1951.

A foot injury that is hampering Don Herman, center fielder on the East Stroudsburg High school baseball squad, is believed to have occurred during the past basketball season. According to unofficial reports it is quite possible that the trouble is a small fracture that didn't heal properly. Don has had a series of X-rays taken in an effort to disclose the full amount of damage caused by the injury. Bob "Red" Kupiszewski was unable to play for the Cavaliers yesterday because of a pulled leg muscle.

Clint Getz, president of the Pocono Mountains Baseball League, telephoned from Canada last night to obtain scores of last Sunday's games. Clint is currently vacationing with our northern neighbors. His party caught several lake trout yesterday, one weighing 17 pounds. Brook trout will be the prey today. Clint reports that it's also raining in Canada. The home run hit by "Reds" Kresge, Kunkletown center fielder-pitcher, last Sunday cleared a point on the left field fence marked 420 feet. The blow came against Tannersville and was one of the reasons Kunkletown won by a 23-12 count.

Paul "Candy" Miller, former football, baseball and basketball star at East Stroudsburg High School, enters the Army today. One and all will be sorry to see Miller depart, especially the management of Jack's Market, the number one club in the Monroe County Softball League at the present time. Paul wound up hostilities with four hits, including a triple, in six trips to the plate last night. Miller has certainly fought a game battle from a broken neck a year and a half ago to regain his athletic form. There was a time when they thought he'd never be able to take part in athletics again.

George Helms pitched a no-hit game yesterday as his Wilson Borough mates clubbed out a 10-2 victory over Fountain Hill. Helms narrowly missed two no-hitters earlier in the campaign against Bangor and Nazareth. The Bangor hit is still being disputed by Wilson supporters even though it happened a couple of weeks back. Wilson is coached by Carlton Berger, former assistant football and basketball coach at Stroudsburg High school.

It is quite obvious that Stroudsburg is running out of fields for the amount of softball and baseball it is attempting to sponsor. The day isn't too far away when something will have to be done about the situation. Bill Altomero, former basketball player at Tobyhanna Township High, suffered a foot injury at home yesterday.

Stroudsburg Nudges Northampton In Final Frame

Weingartner's Hit Decides Contest, 4-3

Karl Weingartner's bases loaded single just inside third base in the home half of the seventh and final inning yesterday enabled Stroudsburg High to score a 4-3 baseball verdict over Northampton at Gordon Giffels field.

The loss was the first of the league season for Northampton.

LEHIGH VALLEY LEAGUE

while Stroudsburg's win was the second in five circuit outings.

Stroudsburg led most of the way, but blew a 2-1 advantage into a 3-2 deficit in the visiting half of the seventh frame, due to some unimpressive play by the Mountaineers.

But the pupils of Jerry Stulgaitis came back in the home half of the final frame to decide the issue. Dick Shuster, who hurled a masterful six hitter, went down on strikes to open the final frame. Paul "Doc" Lim lashed a single off the third baseman's leg and raced to third on a line single to right center by Howard Miller. Miller stole second and Northampton's Coach Mike Lisetski ordered Oplinger to walk Hintze to fill the sacks and set the stage for Weingartner's scorcher to left.

Weingartner picked on the second pitch and sent a curving line drive between the third baseman and the bag, scoring Jim Miller and Hintze, although the latter's run wasn't officially counted. Weingartner could have easily stretched the hit into a double if such a move had been necessary.

Jim Oplinger, big right hander who defeated Whitehall recently with a one-hit performance, suffered a rude treatment by the Mountaineers, as he gave up five of the nine winning hits.

Stroudsburg jumped on starter Druckenmiller for a single run in the first inning when Miller drew a life on an error, went to third on a single by Hintze and scored on Dave Nevil's single. The home team added its second run on a single by Lijn, sacrifice by Hintze and Don Santo's error at third.

Northampton got into the scoring act on an error and singles by Oplinger and Ray Reimer in the fourth. Jim Christian opened the seventh with a walk, was forced at second by Santo. Santo went to third on a single by Schwartz and scored a moment later on another one-pitch wallop by Somp. Schwartz crossed the plate on the next pitch as catcher Ray Singer was charged with a passed ball.

East Stroudsburg High Blanks Bangor, 2-0

Sommers Stops Slaters On Two Singles

East Stroudsburg High turned two Bangor errors and some fine base running into a 2-0 victory over the Slaters yesterday as both clubs were held to two hits.

The game was played at East Stroudsburg Playground.

Both clubs were limited to two hits, but the Cavaliers pushed home each of their runners while Bangor failed to dent the plate.

East Stroudsburg scored in the first inning on a single by Charley "Snooky" Litts, a pair of outs and an error at second base by LeRoy Wolser.

The home contingent came back with an insurance marker in the third. Dick Gray singled to center and continued to second when the Bangor outfield had trouble retrieving the ball. Gray went to third on an infield out and continued home when Ralph "Barney" Stenlake threw the ball wildly to first base.

Meanwhile East Stroudsburg's Bill Sommers and Bangor's Larry Raph, a pair of junior hurlers, were in complete control of the contest. Each was touched for two singles. Don Kents caused all the trouble for Sommers as the Bangor first baseman lashed out a pair of safeties.

Sommers and Raph each demonstrated good control, the former walking three and the latter one. The East Stroudsburg right hander retired 10 batters on strikes, while the Bangor southpaw was credited with eight strikeouts. Sommers continually mixed a slow curve with his regular fast stuff to baffie the Bangor batters.

The win was the third in five Lehigh-Northampton League outings for the Cavaliers, while Bangor's loss was the fifth in six trips to the post.

Only three putouts were made in the outfield during the course of the game.

Chestnuthill Clips Polk To Virtually Clinch Pennant

Kresgeville—Chestnuthill High all but clinched the Monroe County League baseball championship yesterday with a 5-0 victory over Polk, here on the losing club's home ground.

Chestnuthill, now sporting a record of four wins and no defeats, is within one game of cementing its claim to another circuit crown. The charges of Coach Otto "Junior" Mills tangle with Barrett.

Conchaugh	1	2	.333	2
Yates	0	2	.000	3
Yates	0	2	.000	3

on Friday in their final game. The contest will be played at Brodheadville.

Eight Polk errors enabled Chestnuthill to inflict most of its damage, although the winning aggregation touched John Anewalt for six hits.

Chestnuthill broke the scoreless deadlock with three runs in the fourth inning and then put the game on ice with two counters in the fifth.

Polk accounted for three singles in the fifth inning but failed to dent the plate. Chestnuthill bunched six of its seven safeties in the fourth and fifth innings, three coming in each frame.

Bizousky stopped Polk with six hits and received perfect support from his mates in the field.

Sherwood Smith, Polk's shortstop, was the hitting star of the contest, lashing out three safeties in as many trips to the plate.

Lloyd Meekes, with a two-for-four showing at the plate, led the Chestnuthill attack.

This was the only game played in the Monroe County League yesterday.

Keiper's Laundry Tallies In Four Frames To Sink Empire

Keiper's Laundry scored in four innings last night to take the measure of Empire Box in a Monroe County Softball League contest played at Stroudsburg Playgroud, 9-1.

The winning aggregation opened hostilities with two runs in the first.

Today's schedule calls for Al Bessecker's Diner and the Eagles to meet at Stroudsburg Playgroud, while Kulp's Foundry tangles with Worthington Mower at Gordon Giffels field. Action in both cases gets under way at 6:15 p. m.

Box score follows:

Keiper's (9)	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Gavranich, 3b	3	1	2	1	0	0

46 Years A Fireman-- Bush Now In Retirement

Delaware Water Gap—Charles Bush hung up his rubber coat and boots and handed his black hat to a younger man here this week—he's through chasing fires.

At 77 Charley asked to be taken from the active list of Chemical Hose Co. No. 1, and placed on the honorary list. He is one of three charter members still living, and one of the oldest in point of service still active up to last month—46 years after the company's founding.

Monday night 24 firemen turned out at the fire hall here to honor this volunteer who has a vivid recollection of practically every blaze the company ever responded to.

Fred Decker, fire chief, presented the aging firefighter with a $25 U. S. Savings Bond, a gift of the company, and members gave him a cake which was lettered "Forty-six Years Faithful Service." On top was a plastic fire engine.

When the fire company was formed in the Fall of 1908, the St. Elmo boarding house on Oak St. served as headquarters. Two original members Charley recalls as still around are Preston Rinehart and Friend Akers.

Charley had his share of excitement in the 46 years. Take the major fires in the Gap: Kittatiny Hotel, Water Gap House, the old Cataract House. All were "whoppers," Charley says, and "we stayed up all night fighting those fires."

Delaware Water Gap's first apparatus, Charley recalls, was a two-wheel, hand-drawn cart. Later the company purchased a dual-tank chemical truck which it later sold to Portland when the booster-type engine arrived.

Charley was the fire company's first foreman. In 1912 he was elected president, and held that post about five years. He still intends to attend all meetings, but just won't chase the fires any more, since illness caught up with him recently and somewhat curtails his active movement.

But Charley still is spry and has a vivid recollection and keen mind. He has been a fire policeman for the last five years.

Born and raised in this small community, Charley lives alone on Oak St. A son resides in Valley Stream, Long Island, N. Y., where Charley spends his winters. He has three grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Howard Edinger, who lives in the old homestead here.
